

School Observation

Observe around the school using as a guide the sections of the self-study survey on Crisis Response and Prevention that you have reviewed.

In making observations, it is important to understand the difference between what is happening and how well it is happening. Therefore, use the following two column format to first describe what is in place and then indicate whether the practice seems to be good and effective.

First: Describe what you see in as straightforward a manner as you can. (Avoid statements that conclude things were good or bad, more or less, etc.)	Second: What are your judgments/ conclusions? (Indicate good-bad impressions, etc.)