
With Appreciation as the School Year Concludes

From the national Center for MH in Schools & Student/Learning Supports at UCLA*

Hi,

As this school year comes to a close, we want to pause and personally thank you for all you do on behalf of children, families, and schools. Please know how deeply it is appreciated by those affected.

We know firsthand how much effort, care, and persistence it takes to provide the kinds of supports students need to learn, grow, and cope -- especially in the face of ongoing challenges. Much of this work happens quietly and under demanding circumstances, but its impact often is profound.

Looking ahead, we recognize that the coming year will bring both challenges and new opportunities. Your continued commitment to strengthening supports for students and families -- and to advancing equitable, whole-child and whole-school approaches -- remains essential. We are continually inspired by those of you working to rethink and transform student and learning supports in meaningful ways.

It means a great deal to us to be connected with such a thoughtful, dedicated, and diverse community of stakeholders who share a common purpose: helping every student have equity of opportunity to succeed and thrive.

As the summer begins, we hope you are able to take some well-deserved time to rest, reflect, and renew.

We look forward to staying connected and continuing this important work together.

Best wishes and be well,

Howard & Linda
